The Name of Malcolm McLaren has been deleted from the Register of Cultural Boycott of South Africa

The Special Committee has decided to delete the name of Malcolm McLaren, a musician from the United Kingdom, from the Register of Cultural Boycott of South Africa.

In a letter to the Special Committee, Malcolm McLaren said: "I have no intention, nor did I ever have any intent to harm the creative, cultural, or historical tradition or rights of the black Africans. I herein pledge never to return to South Africa until the time that the present political situation has been resolved."
